Dear Parishioners,

This Sunday marks the 5th Sunday of Lent, also known traditionally as Passion Sunday. It signifies the beginning of Passiontide, the final two weeks of Lent when we turn our hearts and minds intensely toward the suffering and death of Christ. During this sacred period, you might notice statues and crucifixes covered with violet cloth in our churches. This ancient tradition symbolizes the hiddenness of Christ in these last days before His Passion and reminds us of the solemnity of the events we commemorate.

Covering statues and sacred images invites us to reflect inwardly, focusing on the mysteries that will soon unfold during Holy Week. Our Catholic Faith deeply values symbols and gestures as essential ways we express and experience the sacred. Throughout Holy Week especially, symbols like palm branches, incense, holy water, candles, and gestures like kneeling and genuflecting profoundly enrich our spiritual life.

These gestures and symbols are not empty rituals; they carry deep meaning and significance. Genuflecting before the tabernacle, for instance, expresses our reverence and acknowledgment of Christ's real presence. Kneeling during the consecration or when receiving Holy Communion is a powerful gesture of humility and adoration. Each act connects us directly to generations of faithful Catholics who have worshiped in the same way, reminding us of our unity in faith across time and space.

Using Latin in hymns and liturgies similarly ties us to our rich Catholic heritage. When Ben and our choir chant these beautiful ancient hymns, they echo the voices of countless saints and martyrs who sang—and sometimes even gave their lives while singing—these same words. Even if we don't fully understand Latin, we can still deeply appreciate and benefit spiritually from its profound beauty and historical significance.

A lack of complete understanding of these gestures or the Latin language should never deter us. Instead, as Catholics who cherish our faith, we should be motivated to deepen our knowledge and understanding. We are blessed today with abundant resources—books, websites, and translations—to help us learn and appreciate these traditions more fully.

In embracing these meaningful traditions, we honor those who have faithfully gone before us, who celebrated the same rites, prayed the same prayers, and sang the same hymns. Let us enter Passiontide with reverence, gratitude, and a desire to live our faith fully and deeply, connected in heart and soul to the saints, martyrs, and faithful Catholics across the ages.

God bless, Fr. Miguel

FROM THE DESK OF FR. CRISTIAN.

For many Catholics today, the sound of Latin in the Mass can seem foreign—something from another time, perhaps even unnecessary. Others, especially younger families, find beauty and reverence in it, eager to reclaim a tradition that speaks to the Church's universal identity. Whether we find Latin familiar or distant, embracing its role in the liturgy is not about nostalgia or personal preference; rather, it is about preserving and participating in a heritage that belongs to all of us as Catholics.

The Catholic Church is a universal Church, spanning centuries and continents. Latin, as a sacred language, has united Catholics across the world in prayer and worship for generations. It is not merely an old language—it is a sign of our unity, linking us with the saints who came before us and with Catholics in every land. The Second Vatican Council itself affirmed the value of Latin in the liturgy, teaching that "the use of the Latin language is to be preserved in the Latin rites" (Sacrosanctum Concilium, 36). Latin serves as a bridge between generations, allowing us to worship with the same words sung by our ancestors, deepening our connection to the faith they handed down to us. It is a language set apart for sacred purposes, lifting our hearts beyond the ordinary and reminding us that we stand before the mystery of God.

Just as a church building is consecrated and set apart for divine worship, and just as the sacred vessels, vestments, and rituals of the Mass are reserved for God alone, so too is Latin a language consecrated for sacred use. It is not the language of everyday speech, and that is precisely its beauty. When we step into the Mass, we step into something beyond the ordinary—a foretaste of heaven. The use of Latin helps us to enter more fully into this sacred reality, reminding us that the liturgy is not simply a human gathering, but a divine encounter. This language, distinct from the secular world, calls us to a deeper reverence and a greater awareness that we are standing in the presence of God.

One of the most powerful aspects of Latin in the Mass is its connection to Gregorian chant, a form of sacred music that has been cherished by the Church for over a thousand years. Chant is not just music—it is prayer. The melodies are designed to help us reflect, to bring peace to our hearts, and to elevate the soul toward God. When we sing in Latin, we are not merely singing words; we are entering into a form of worship that transcends language barriers and personal preferences. Latin chant also allows the congregation to participate fully, despite linguistic differences. Whether one is in Rome, Africa, or America, the Sanctus, the Agnus Dei, and the Gloria remain the same. These sung prayers become a shared experience, connecting us to the universal Church and to the heavenly liturgy where the angels perpetually sing praise to God.

For those who are hesitant about Latin, it is important to realize that this is not about abandoning English or making the Mass difficult to understand. Instead, it is about recovering something that is already ours. Latin has been at the heart of Catholic worship for centuries; it is a gift that belongs to every Catholic, young and old. To sing in Latin is to reclaim part of our spiritual inheritance, to honor the faith of those who came before us, and to pass on something beautiful to future generations. The Church reminds us of this when she teaches: "Nevertheless, steps should be taken so that the faithful may also be able to say or to sing together in Latin those parts of the Ordinary of the Mass which pertain to them" (Sacrosanctum Concilium, 54). Rather than seeing Latin as an obstacle, we can view it as a treasure—one that enriches our worship and deepens our participation in the sacred mysteries of the Mass. By learning even a few of the sung prayers, we become part of something greater than ourselves, joining our voices with Catholics throughout the ages in a hymn of praise to God.

We invite everyone to open their hearts to this tradition, not as a burden but as a gift. Whether you have sung in Latin before or are hearing it for the first time, allow yourself to experience the beauty of these prayers. Let them remind you that our faith is ancient, alive, and universal. Latin in the Mass is not about the past—it is about who we are, here and now, as members of the one, holy, Catholic, and apostolic Church. Come, sing, and pray with the Church that has been singing these same words for centuries. Let us embrace this treasure together.

PASSIONTIDE

Passiontide, a distinct period within the broader Lenten season, marks a shift in focus towards the immediate contemplation of Christ's suffering and impending crucifixion.

Specifically, Passiontide commences on the fifth Sunday of Lent, also known as Passion Sunday, and extends through Holy Saturday, the day before Easter Sunday. This period serves as an intensified preparation for the Paschal Triduum, the three holiest days in the Christian liturgical calendar, encompassing the events of Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday.

During Passiontide, statues and crosses are covered with purple or red cloths. This practice has roots in 9th century Germany. At the beginning of Lent, a cloth called a Hungertuch, or Hunger Cloth, covered the altar. During the Middle Ages, statues of saints and other images were covered at the start of Lent. Beginning in the 17th century, veiling was limited to Passiontide instead of throughout Lent.
